The 1934 Graymaroon

Published by the Students of Bethel College, Newton, Kansas

Edmund G. Kaufman
President of Bethel College
Ph. D., University of Chicago, 1928

We are living in a time of uncertainty. Predictions of the future are not at all positive. Governments and civilization are in a state of flux. Whether this college generation of today will be allowed to make a contribution to civilization in its turn, depends on whether war will be outlawed in the near future. Whether our country will again take to the road of progress depends on the adaptation of our social, economic, and political set-up to present day conditions.

In common with other things this state of uncertainty has also reached into our educational system. To keep our schools intact and steadily growing under the increasing stress from the outside is the tremendous task of a school executive today.

In recognition of this fact and the confidence we have in his leadership this Graymaroon is dedicated to Dr. Kaufman in particular and in general to all those who lend their efforts to a growing Bethel College.

DEDICATION

FOREWORD

Three lean years have passed since the publication of the last Gray-maroon. The students' purses could not stand the strain. The students, however, have felt a need of historically recording in Bethel's annuals the student life unique to this time. Student conditions five years ago do not compare with today's set-up and that they will continue to change is most probable.

Therefore, we say that the purpose of this annual is to record for ourselves and posterity a few glimpses of student life which will be worth remembering.

This book is not specifically the work of a staff. Several score persons have shown an interest in the annual and have contributed material with only the thanks of the editor as compensation.

That this book may be a reminder of our college days in all their phases is the desire of the staff.

The centuries behind us like a fruitful land repose;

We cling to the present for the promise that it holds,

But dip into the future far as human eye can see,

And see the vision of the world and the wonder that would be.

*Rising towers, gentle arches,
Dented steps, oft trod halls,
A door ajar;
A bell heard ringing,
The click of a locker,
A step on the floor,
The swing of a door;
A roomful of chairs,
An organ in the distance,
The sound of voices.
—Our Ad Building.*

*Parties and banquets, skating and games,
'Tis a barrel of fun
We pack under these eaves.
Strength too, and muscle and brawn,
They tell us in gym,
Is a part of our college.*

*Tho half hidden by leaves, and half in retreat,
It's not so quiet as you would suppose
Those bricks fairly ring
With music and laughter and cheer
To tell us the fair co-eds of our college live there.*

The Spring

The soul of a college is the personality complex of the faculty. Each member in his own singular fashion brings his personality to bear upon the changeable element of a college—the student body.

These men and women who aim to lead us to higher levels of learning and living come from many communities and states. They are a product of the particular environment that has produced them.

Significant in this environment are the educational institutions from which these faculty members have received their degrees. The imprints of these institutions upon each one have been carried into our school and have helped to make her a school of many influences. Our Bethel faculty represents a fusion of the more subtle influences and finer qualities that emanate from the universities in this land. They come, as it were, from the north and the south, the east and the west to give credit to our institution.

Students look with satisfaction upon the fact that each year more men are securing Ph. D. degrees in order to be of greater service to the school. This is done in spite of the meager income and the uncertain future before them. To the soul of our school this means growth.

The outstanding thread of unity binding the faculty into a single purpose is the effort of each instructor to teach in accordance with the Christian principles of living. Such unity in the purpose of instruction when so many diversified personalities are involved points to the uniqueness of the school. It sets for us an idealism we cannot do wrong to follow.

The Faculty

DR. J. W. KLIEWER, S. T. B., D. D.
President Emeritus

Dr. Kliewer is the Bethel College Church pastor.
And in this position he proves to be a great master.

PROF. P. J. WEDEL, A. M.
Registrar of College and Assistant Professor of Chemistry.

Professor in Chemistry and also the Registrar,
Who enrolls all the students that are.

PROF. J. F. MOYER, A. M.
Treasurer of College and Instructor in Economics.

Professor Moyer, you know, is King of Finance,
And with lots of our bills, he takes a big chance.

PROF. A. J. GRABER, A. M.
Business Manager and Assistant Professor of English.

Dramatics is Professor Graber's idol,
And to this end, his mind was never idle.

DR. J. R. THIERSTEIN, Ph. D.
Professor of German and French.

German is his hobby.
Hard he works both day and night,
To teach students their "Dutch" aright.

PROF. D. H. RICHERT, A. M.
Professor of Mathematics.

Our "Uncle Davy" is a jolly, good-humored,
Good mathematician, who is loved by all.

PROF. J. H. DOELL, B. S., A. B.
Professor of Biology.

A big botany man from "out there",
Who does his bragging before election.

PROF. J. E. LINSCHIED, A. M.
Professor of English.

With the Literature masters of his kind,
In search and research has he spent much time.

PROF. W. H. HOHMANN, Music M.
Director of Department of Music.

His fingers swiftly glide over the piano keys and his hands and arms talk to the chorus when it sings.

PROF. A. P. FRIESEN, A. M.
Professor of Physics.

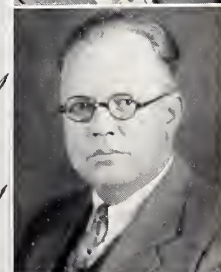

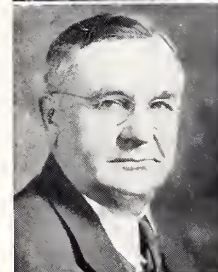

Our Einstein spends long hours in his laboratory working with students and on various experiments.

PROF. R. E. ANDERSON, Music M.
Professor of Voice.

Uses his voice to bring joy to himself and others.
Sponsor of the remarkable octette.

PROF. J. B. HEFFELFINGER, A. M.
Supervisor of Critic Teachers.

J. B. Heffelfinger is our student-teachers observer,
And in this work, he puts forth much fervor.

The Faculty

DR. P. E. SCHELLENBERG, A. M., Ph. D.
Professor of Education and Psychology.

Our hard-working psychologist—gains his knowledge of students through his weakness for tests.

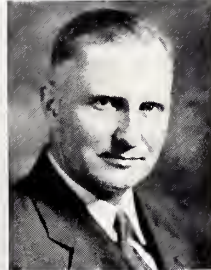

DR. E. L. HARSHBARGER, A. M., Ph. D.
Professor of Sociology, Economics and Public Speaking.

He humors all who pass his way.
"Work is a blessing," quoth he, they say.

PROF. MARY E. HOOLEY, A. M.
Assistant Professor of English.

The little lady with a ready smile,
Makes reading of books very worthwhile.

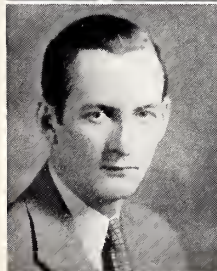

PROF. ABRAHAM WARKENTIN, A. M.
Assistant Professor of Bible and German.

A man admired and loved for the enthusiasm and sympathy with which he attacks problems abandoned by others.

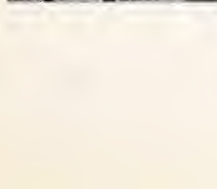

PROF. A. J. REGIER, A. M.
Director of Teacher Training.

A man full of virile ambition
Who seeks for all teachers—a position.

PROF. G. R. GAEDDERT, A. M.
Assistant Professor of History and Government.

He knows not only people of the present, but also of the past and strives to share that knowledge with others.

DR. H. W. LOHRENZ, A. M., D. D.
Assistant Professor of Biology and Bible.

A dignified and learned friend of his fellowmen.
No student's problem is too trivial for his attention.

PROF. J. J. VOTH, A. B., M. S.
Instructor in Industrial Arts.

The students friend, always willing to lend a helping hand.

COACH OTTO UNRUH, A. B.
Instructor in Physical Education.

Although hampered from every side, he has learned to "take the bench and come back fighting."

MISS LEONA KREHBIEL, B. S. in L. S.
Librarian.

Knows books, where to find them, and how to use them.

PROF. ELDON M'COLLUM
Violin.

Professor McCollum is a teacher of fiddle.
How he does it demands an encore every time.

MISS OLGA HIEBERT
Organ.

Miss Hiebert is a tickler of keys,
And she surely knows her C's and G's.

The College Stream

The most changing thing on the campus is the student personnel. Each year brings us a new group of young people wondering what all this college life is about, and each year also sees many faces leaving our campus wondering where life's stream will take them.

As the seeker of knowledge enters our halls for the first time, he probably does not realize that from that day on his individuality is gradually becoming merged into the stream which is known as "College Life."

Far and wide, in every country, youth is seeking the refreshing waters of this stream. Its fame is widely known, its glories are many. Youth in college!—to you, ascending the waves of life with a new determination and a new zest, a new vision—a new gleam appears.

See that sparkle in his eye! Ah, he has tasted knowledge—the dull, the humdrum of life has lost its savor. There is more, infinitely more, in new horizons—life has but just begun.

To be sure, there are times of relapses when students in their weakness still follow the path of least resistance, or, in preference to pursuing knowledge, slide down the iced steps of "easy street." However, this is to be expected of some who have so lately been removed from the parental roof.

As theories of education are gradually advancing, Bethel, with other schools, is pioneering to keep step with this progress. Although not yet having reached the goal where students will spontaneously neglect eating and sleeping as well as the romantic instinct when spring-time comes because of the fascination of their work, Bethel does, nevertheless, succeed in motivating many of the more serious minded students to exchange their soft beds with a hard chair in the back row of some classroom on many a cold, wintry morning.

The fellowship enjoyed by the students on a small campus such as this is a great addition to student life. The comradeship and good will prevailing among our student group is one thing to make us truly grateful. The friendships formed here are ties that can ne'er be broken.

Seniors In Review

"Hey, 'Doc', you long-legged Senior! Come back!"

"Long-legged yourself! What's up?"

"Class meeting. Room 13."

"Aw, can't you find anything better to do?"
But "Doc" heeds the command. enters room 13, and hears:

"Mildred Krehbiel is going to set my hair tomorrow."

"I lost my knife at our wiener roast."

"The meeting will come to order."

"Why. last night, about 12 o'clock . . ."

"The meeting will come to order!" John Krehbiel maintains his authority as president and presents the business at hand. "Well, we have to decide all about s . . s . . sn . . , say, Wes, close the door, all about sneak day."

"Mr. Chairman!"

"Miss Hennessy."

"I move that we go to Caesar's Bridge."

"Second?" But there is none.

"Mr. Chairman, why not go to Topeka? The governor's there; and the asylum, too."

"Yes, but how can we get away from the Juniors? They sleep only by halves."

"Well, let's leave at . . ."

"Mr. Chairman, Mose Stucky is sweeping the hall, and the transom is open."

Yes, the Freshmen of 1931 are the Seniors of 1934! "Veni, vidi, vici!" Therefore, they are eligible for graduation from Bethel.

But who are these Seniors of 1934? Certainly not the very group that was known as the Freshmen class four years ago? Only seven of those ninety "charter members" remain. "Willy" Friesen, Aileen Hennessy, John Krehbiel, Don Kennison, Wesley Cunningham, John Bekker, and Harold Schmidt may rightly claim that distinction.

As a freshman "Willy," you know, was very zealous for the prestige of a certain upper classman. By the way, he is a girl, answering to the name of Wilhelmina Elizabeth Friesen. And you can always depend on Aileen when the class meeting is "stuck" for lack of a motion. "Mr. Chairman, I move that . . ." Action follows!

Have you ever heard of the first speech Wes gave in college? He was president then, that is, of the Freshman class. Since that time he has been almost everything else also.

Stars? The Senior class has several! John Krehbiel and "Doc" Kennison belong in that category. They like "athletic pie." But lest you misconstrue the foregoing, let me inform you that "Doc" is the abbreviation of Donald, and not of Doctor.

You must remember, also, that there is a second John, preferably called Hans, to distinguish him from the class president. No, they don't look alike. Besides, "Hans" John Bekker is a native of Russia. As yet he shows no signs of red.

The activities of "Monk" Schmidt are not quite as serious as his name indicates. Oh, yes, he studies, but that accounts for only a fraction of his waking hours.

Have you ever met Esther? She is the "Miss Bethel." It should not be difficult for a school board (nor any one else) to decide: "She's the one!" And her friend Vera should be called the "Princess," for her bearing and attitude bespeak such characterization.

Don't the Juniors usually "treat" their worthy predecessors at a banquet? This class must have, if that is established custom. But the more fascinating sneak day of 1933 seems to have superseded it in importance. Honestly! The 1933 Seniors tried to sneak. And were they hot! They couldn't help it—not when they were hiding in culverts, or facing a gun, or resting in a hatchery.

That reminds me of Luella Smith—"the girl with the Buick." And Buick means seventy miles per hour. At least on the Sneak Day I just mentioned. You see, there was a V-8 on the road also!

Mabel and capable Marc certainly can argue. (I won't say quarrel). Each is gifted with a superior intelligence, yet they seldom agree. Mabel is the girl that wins the friendship of all who know her. You may not agree with her, yet she calls you friend.

I must remind you once more of Marc—for he has a car. A 1926 Model-T. Of course, that's important. Doesn't that very automobile bring treasured letters to homesick students?

"Ja chotschu donoi." Can't you understand? Mia Reimer and Susie Penner are saying something that we shall not know. Honor is due them, however, for the wonderful progress they have made since they joined our class as strangers.

"Florence, you may read." That is just Walt Loewen reverting back to the teacher-pupil situation of several years past. Pesky answers, "You don't mean that!" Pesky and the studious Dave C. Goering are "identical twins."

We dare not forget to mention the senior class "baby" (chronologically) who is none less than Henry Lohrenz. He is not sure which can go the faster, the Buick or its owner.

And we must not forget Henry's sister, Mariana (yes, she's older), that quiet, unassuming seniorite who joined the class this year after studying in various colleges all over the country and teaching for a few years. But underneath that somber exterior lies the liveliest, most vivacious nature, full of pep and life to the few who can penetrate into her friendship.

Let me tell you the result of the class meeting mentioned above. The Seniors sneaked to Topeka—successfully. Nor was it necessary to be unduly "het up" about it all.

Stephen Wang and James Liu

Alumni of Bethel College

Bethel had the rare good fortune, during the year 1931-32, to have as guest students two Chinese boys, James Liu and Stephen Wang.

These young men were brought to America in the fall of 1930, through the efforts of Dr. and Mrs. E. G. Kaufman, Mr. and Mrs. Sam Goering, and Dr. and Mrs. A. M. Lohrentz, together with other friends. Having received scholarships at Bluffton College they enrolled there for the year 1930-31.

In June, 1931, they drove to Newton, Kansas, with Dr. Kaufman, arriving on our campus in time to attend the summer school. They continued their studies at Bethel College through the following year and graduated with the class of 1932, James with a major in sociology, and Stephen with a major in chemistry. They concluded their studies in America with a summer at Ilaff Theological Seminary at Denver, Colorado, and returned to China in the fall of 1932.

While attending school they devoted a great many of their week ends to the visiting of Mennonite churches in surrounding communities. In the spring of 1932 they also visited the churches of South Dakota and Minnesota.

Before coming to America the boys had taken two years of college work at Yen Ching University at Peking, but previous to that they had attended the General Conference Mission boarding school in China, and had accepted the Christian faith. That this acceptance was a vital and meaningful experience to each was apparent both in their words and their conduct. They were not afraid to think independently or to uphold their convictions. But they were among us chiefly as friends and not merely as Chinese Christian gentlemen; they were of us. Being alumni of Bethel College, our alma mater shall ever claim them as her sons.

At present they are rendering faithful service in China, and are greatly appreciated by both missionaries and Chinese. James is teaching in the high-school and in the Bible school at Kai Chow, and Stephen is engaged in evangelistic work at Tamingfu.

School Currents

As currents give momentum to a stream, so organizations, or what has been termed as extra-curricular activities in the past, arouse the enthusiasm and interest of students in college. Important as classwork is, schools are realizing that the place of real education lies not so much in the conventional theory and formality of the classroom but in putting practical theories into actual life experiences.

This is what organizations, such as are found on the following pages, are trying to do in our school. In these activities students are left free to work out what they have gleaned from classroom and books; to use their initiative and originality in the discovery of the new.

At times one current crosses another, causing whirlpools, but the two only merge into a stronger, larger stream. So it is with these activities, which lead us into one stream through many undercurrents.

Student Council

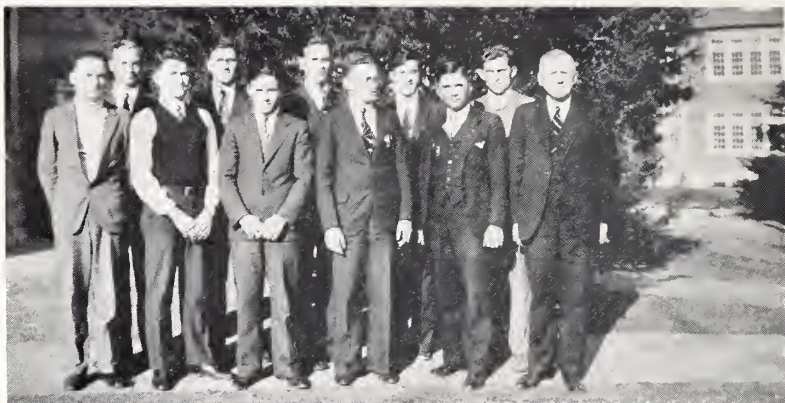

This year the reorganized student council has attracted considerable attention due to its function in regard to student life and college activities.

Last spring a group of students worked to reorganize the council and drafted a constitution which was accepted by the student body. Election for all members except freshmen was held in spring. The freshmen representatives were elected the following fall.

The following class representatives were chosen: senior, Mabel Goering, J. Marc Jantzen and Wesley Cunningham; junior, Norma Doell, Linda Brown, and Arthur Landes; sophomore, Helen Buser and Frank Harms; and freshman, Martha Penner and Louis Carmouche. Faculty representatives chosen by the faculty were Dean Goertz, Prof. Loganbill and Mrs. Phillips.

From among this group Wesley Cunningham was elected president, Arthur Landes, vice-president and Helen Buser, secretary-treasurer.

The Young Men's Christian Association is an organization of campus men whose purpose is to help minister to the religious needs of the students, to bring them into a closer and deeper understanding of Jesus Christ and to show the vital importance of Christian men and their service. It is also interested in showing the necessity for a change in our economic, political, and social systems if Christ's principles are to rule the world.

The organization does its work chiefly in three ways: through the local work; by sending delegates to the state and regional Y. M. and Y. W. conferences; and by bringing well-known and qualified speakers to the campus and community.

The Y. M. and the Y. W. have sponsored jointly a welcome to Freshmen at the beginning of each year, a Christmas and an Easter pageant, and the International party in Spring.

The state and regional conferences are of great importance. This year ten per cent of the whole student body was represented at each of the state conferences, held at Emporia and Lawrence.

One conference which Y. members strive to attend, is the Estes Park Conference held each year in the early part of June.

"Called to reveal Christ" is the motto of the S. V. group at Bethel College. Interest in foreign and home mission work is stressed. Out of a group of about twenty members, five have signed the national declaration card signifying their intention to become foreign missionaries.

Regular meetings are held each Tuesday evening. Outside speakers are invited every month. Besides the weekly meetings, members of the group give programs in surrounding churches in the interest of missions and consecration to service. Once a month groups go to the Old Folk's Home, the hospital, and the Children's Home. Programs are given every two weeks at the county jail.

A member of our group, Herbert Miller, was secretary-treasurer of the Kansas-Western Missouri S. V. union. Mrs. A. Theodore Mueller has been elected as alumni secretary for the coming year. Representatives from Bethel attended the annual convention held at Wichita.

The plan is to continue the interest by increasing the opportunities, participation in programs and social contacts. Missionary interests will be promoted through inviting more missionary speakers and through working out a definite missionary project.

Y. W. C. A.

The Young Women's Christian Association of Bethel College is affiliated with the national organization which is a member of the World Christian Federation. Internationalism and world peace is furthered by student conferences, in which local members participate. One of these is held at Estes Park from which students return charged with enthusiasm to go on with the local work.

The purpose of the Y. W. C. A. is: "We desire to unite in the desire to realize a full and creative life through a growing knowledge of God. We determine to have a part in making this possible for all people. In this task we seek to understand Jesus and follow him."

Every year the Y. W. decides on a definite objective which they try to carry out in the program. This year we chose "Creative Living" which we carried out through "big and little sisters," "friendship talks," "teas," "heart sister week" and the weekly programs which were in charge of the different committees.

The Y. W. C. A. cooperates with the Y. M. C. A. in sponsoring the "fall mixer," the "international party," and special monthly programs.

The faculty advisors are Mrs. Phillips, Mrs. Richard, Mrs. Schellenberg, Mrs. Doell, Mrs. Harshbarger and Mrs. Kaufman.

"Der Deutsche Verein"

"Der Deutsche Literarische Verein" is the oldest and now the only literary society in Bethel College. It is composed of all students who are interested in the German language. New members are introduced by a soliciting committee. It is expected that all students taking German in the College join the "Verein."

The purpose of the "Verein" is to cultivate the German language in prose, poetry, conversation, and song, and to create interest in German things.

The meetings are held regularly every other week on Thursday night. The lives of distinguished German writers, artists and composers, and their works and influence are studied. The programs are of a miscellaneous type, consisting of readings, stories, talks, debates, short plays, and music. All speaking, singing, and deliberating at the meetings is done in the German tongue.

An occasional social evening during the semester, which consists usually of a "hike" or outing helps to foster the interest. "Der Deutsche Verein" hopes to act as a nucleus about which may develop a more intense appreciation of German language literature and spirit at Bethel.

Collegian

Just as towns and cities need newspapers to enable people to know the happenings of the day, so is a newspaper necessary to a college. Bethel has its own student publication included in the "Evening Kansan-Republican," a Newton paper.

"The Collegian" is written and edited by the students under the supervision of Miss Mary E. Hooley of the English department.

Probably the one person who has done more for the Collegian in the last few years than any other, is J. Marcus Jantzen. Mr. Jantzen has worked on the paper the three years he has been at Bethel, doing much to build up its circulation and acting as editor for three semesters. He has been untiring in his efforts and has been very skillful in getting work from his staff. Mr. Jantzen resigned his position last semester to assume the position of business manager for the Graymaroon.

The Collegian staff is composed of the following individuals: Linda Brown, editor-in-chief; Mabel Goering, assistant editor; Mose Stucky, news editor; Helen Buser, editorial writer; Dorothy Brunner, Norma Doell, Dorothy Jantzen, Mariana Lohrenz, reporters; Henry Lohrenz, sports editor; Lily Schmidt, organizations; Dorothea Epp, feature writer; Helen Zink, personals and society; Norton Goertz, circulation manager; and Mary E. Hooley, faculty advisor.

The students who write for the Collegian do not receive credit for their work, but do it as a contribution to student life.

Delta Sigma Club

Delta Sigma is our oldest society and one of the foremost from the standpoint of the ideals and abilities of its members. It is these characteristics as designated by its motto "Crescat Scientia" which have created the society.

It is the desire of this club to foster the spirit of study and investigation of the truths of Natural Science and further facilitate the teaching of Natural Science at Bethel College.

As members, the Delta Sigma society welcomes all faculty members and any college student who has a satisfactory class record, who has had three hours of credit in science or who is carrying at least three hours of science, or shall have completed previously two semesters work in science.

Delta Sigma is still growing, as evidenced by its steady progress each year, and the college may expect in the future society an even more satisfactory medium for the expression of scientific activity.

Graymaroon

The Graymaroon Staff consisting of the following personnel: Alvin J. Becker, editor; Luella Smith, associate editor; J. Marc Jantzen, business manager; Irene Lewis, assistant business manager; Max Seger, advertising manager; Linda Mueller, organizations; Mariana Lohrenz, miscellaneous; Walter Loewen, photograph manager; Sam Byler, snap-shots; Henry Lohrenz, athletics; and Mose Stucky, circulation manager, with the support of the entire student body, faculty, and the business men of the city of Newton have made it possible to accumulate and arrange the material within the book.

A production of the Graymaroon for the past three years had been confined to a mere dream rather than a reality not because there was no student interest but because of the critical financial situation which made itself felt so thoroughly among the colleges, another definite reason for the failure of this dream to materialize was the fact that there was no student organization to carry the responsibility. This year the student council has carried that responsibility.

The annual is a historical record of the people that attend the school, the events of major importance that occurred in the student life during the year and it also gives in picture form the informal life of the college student.

The staff itself is informal in that it takes not only the recorded staff members to produce the book but the whole hearted co-operation of the entire student body. A host of hands and minds have contributed their energy to the annual.

International Relations Club

The International Relations Club has been organized on the Bethel Campus to study and discuss affairs of international importance.

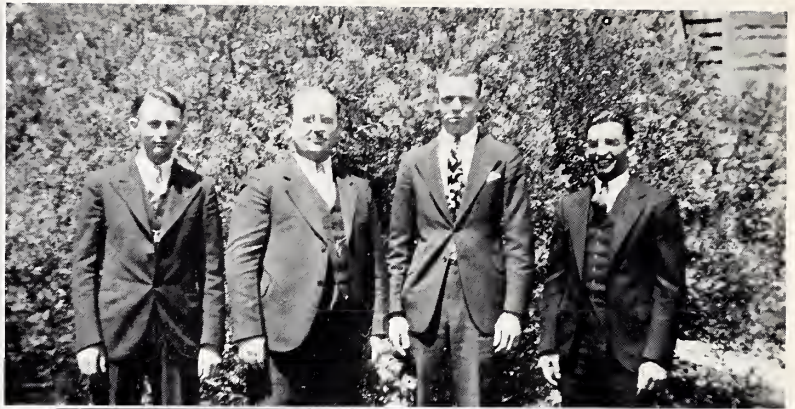

This club, during 1933-34, has been sponsored by Dr. Harshbarger and Prof. Gaeddert. Mabel Goering has been president of the club with Max Seger serving as Vice-President and Mildred Krehbiel as Secretary and Treasurer. These five comprise the council which has charge of business matters and programs.

The International Relations Club consisting of 40 members, meets bi-weekly on Tuesday evenings. Interest in the work of the club is growing rapidly due to great social unrest of the nations. Current News, Hitlerism, Socialism, Bolshevism, and many other current problems are brought up here for forum discussion and debate.

The club is a member of the national organization sponsored by the Carnegie Endowment for International peace for the study of international relations. Every year the club receives, as a gift of the Carnegie endowment, valuable books by reliable authors on the subject. These books have all been given to the college library. Subscriptions to the International Labor Review and League of Nations pamphlets are also donated.

The club during this year has been paying particular attention to the study of the changing governments and growing forces within the government, particularly in Germany, Italy, and the United States.

Public Speaking Club

With increased interest being shown in the forensic and dramatic activities of the college, the Public Speaking Club was organized in the Fall of 1933.

The purposes of the Club are to create further interest in dramatic and forensic activity, to serve the college and the community by sponsoring speech programs of both local and outside talent, and, in general, to assist wherever possible in planning and executing the extensive program of forensic activities of the college year.

This year the Club has secured various professional dramatic entertainers to give their programs for college students. It sponsored and assisted in the presentation of the College play, "The Poor Nut," besides planning and handling finances of debate and oratory work.

At present the Club covers all phases of forensic and dramatic work offered at the College. In the course of this year, however, it has applied for membership in Pi Kappa Delta, National Honorary Forensic Society and in the Alpha Psi Omega, National Honorary Dramatics Society. The latter petition has been accepted and should Bethel be readmitted into N. C. A., the Speech Club will probably divide into these two National Honor Societies.

Oratory

Bethel students realize that oratory affords a very valuable training for clear thinking, poise, and culture of personality. Oratory was supervised this year by Dr. E. L. Harshbarger, head of the Bethel Speech Department.

Bethel participates each year in the State Peace Oratorical Contest and the Anti-Tobacco Oratorical Contest. This year, however, all students entered the former contest. The five students participating were: Theodore Regier, Thomas Walker, Frank Harms, Harry Martens, and Willard Claassen.

In the local contest which was held in the college chapel, April 6, 1934, first place was awarded to Thomas Walker for his oration entitled "The Challenge of Peace." Mr. Walker represented Bethel in the State Oratorical Contest at Winfield, April 13, 1934. Here he gained honorable mention.

Last year Ray Guy represented Bethel in the State contest. Seven schools were represented in this meet. The prizes awarded were: $50 for first prize; $30 for second prize; $20 for third. It was in this contest that Mr. Guy delivered his state prize winning oration, entitled "Mars or God." This oration was selected as one of the twelve best in the nation and will be used during the coming year as a peace declamation in several state peace declamation contests.

Debate

Many students have realized the pleasures and benefits to be derived from College debating in its widening of one's powers of research and organization, and in its development of character through the vocal expression of one's own ideas.

Continuing the distinguished performances of the debaters of the previous season, who took first place in the Kansas Inter-Collegiate Debating League in both men's and women's divisions, the Bethel debate squad under the efficient supervision of Dr. Harshbarger, participated in an extensive speech campaign consisting of 70 debates with colleges and universities from ten different states. The outstanding accomplishments were undoubtedly that of the ladies teams, which placed third in the State Tournament at Emporia, and that of the mens team which, at the national Pi Kappa Delta Tournament held at Lexington, Kentucky, was one of the six teams that plowed through the first five rounds undefeated.

Only exclusion from membership in the Pi Kappa Delta Debating Fraternity prevented them from penetrating into the succeeding rounds. Bethel's application for a local chapter of this organization has been found acceptable, save for a mere technicality, which it is believed will soon be overcome.

With so prosperous a background and so pleasing a prospect the Bethel Speech Department invites a greater number of students, particularly ladies, to enter its precincts and enjoy the delights of verbal communication and persuasion.

Dramatics

The Poor Nut, a comedy in three acts, was presented at the Newton City Auditorium on February 7, 1934, under the direction of Dr. E. L. Harshbarger, head of the Dramatics department.

The following characters played the leading roles:

John Miller	-	-	-	-	Murray Hawley
Marjorie Blake	-	-	-	-	Anna Andrews
"Spike" Hoyt	-	-	-	-	Norman Burkett
Julia Winters	-	-	-	-	Linda Mueller

The Minor parts were played by:

Harrison Krider, Weir Owens, Raymond Stucky, Mose Stucky, Arnold Buhler, Erwin Schmidt, Willard Schmidt, John Schroeder, Glenn Stevenson, Sue Unruh, Irene Lewis and Martha Penner.

The vigor and alertness of the action in this play made the setting very realistic, and the large audience was kept in suspense throughout. The three acts of the play depict the life of a timid college student who, due to his inferiority complex always discovers himself in embarrassing situations. However, due to the influence of a college co-ed, he finally emerges from this complex, becomes master of the situation and ceases to be an introvert.

Other productions of the dramatics department during the year were the following one-act plays, which were presented by members of the dramatics class:

Alice's Blue Gown	-	-	-	-	-	Rose Campion
The Piper's Pay	-	-	-	-	-	Margaret Cameron
The Valiant	-	-	-	-	-	Hall and Robert Middemass

The Octette

An anomalous feature of the past year has been the organization of an octette, a group of eight masculine singers recompensed for their services by scholarships and selected on a highly competitive basis from among many applicants.

Instructed and groomed by Professor Anderson, the octette has acquired a repertoire of numerous and various songs, both secular and religious which it has interpreted for the entertainment of many an audience. In the carrying out of the purpose for which it was initiated, namely, to strengthen the bonds of union between Bethel College, the Mennonite churches, and the youth of neighboring and more distant high schools, its members have travelled the noteworthy distance of three thousand miles, have sung in five different states and delivered four radio broadcasts. Christmas found them carolling in "the State of lakes," Minnesota, under the supervision of Professor Hohmann. Easter arrived to hear them (paternalized by Professor Unruh) singing "hosannas" in Oklahoma.

In view of the enjoyment derived from its singing in the college, in the town of Newton, in the contingent community and in more distant states it is not inopportune to rejoice over the decision that the octette is to be a permanency—a cluster of select voices ever here to soothe, gladden and inspire.

The Octette includes Terrence Burns, Dave Suderman, John Schroeder, Floyd Roberts, Erwin Goering, Marvin Dirks, Pete Kaufman, and Walt Loewen.

Brass Sextette

The only means of showing the general public that there is life and a real school spirit backing the Graymaroon athletes is by displaying a live and enthusiastic pep club. The pep and energy shown by the students is absorbed by the crowd, and they will better appreciate a school made up of wide-awake and enthusiastic young people.

To accomplish this purpose, the student body selected Helen Zink, Linda Mueller, and Ray Stucky as cheer leaders at the beginning of the year. Upon finding that a band would be both impractical and impossible, an enthusiastic group of six boys banded together to in some way take the place of a larger organization. The efforts of this group were a great inspiration to the teams, both on the gridiron and on the court; at the same time instilling enthusiasm in the cheering section. This group also lended much color to the skating parties and other functions held at various times throughout the year.

The Sextette and cheer leaders took the initiative to furnish their own uniforms, adding much to the individuality in appearing on college occasions. It was one of the worthwhile projects to foster school spirit.

The Bethel College Brass Sextette, as they were known to the student group, was composed of Sam Byler, trombone and conductor; Eldon Rich, trombone; Norton Goertz and Orville Penner, cornets; Alvin Goering, French horn, and Alfred Schroeder, bass horn.

Ladies' Quartette

The Ladies' Quartette, selected and directed by Prof. Hohmann, is a striking feature of the Music Department of Bethel College. It is a valuable asset in rendering programs for the College and in entertaining audiences in and near Newton.

One of the notable things which they did was to visit several High Schools in Kansas with the aim of interesting the seniors of these schools in attending our college. They drove to Goessel, Galva, Inman, Roxbury, Lincolnville, Lost Springs, Ramona, Marion, Buhler, Tampa, Lehigh, Hillsboro, Peabody, Florence, Whitewater, and Potwin for this purpose and were appreciated by their audiences. They were also asked to sing in many churches and clubs in Newton.

In addition to all these outside entertainments, the quartette gave the college many opportunities to hear them. Their excellent vocalization was enjoyed at numerous chapel programs and at the Easter and Christmas banquets in the Dining Hall. They accompanied the A Cappella Choir in its public appearances and sang selected numbers to help fill in the program between the choir selections.

One of the outstanding presentations of the Quartette was broadcasted March 2nd over Radio Station KFJH in Wichita as one of the regular programs of our music department. Some of the favorite numbers of the Quartette are: "Lindy Lou," "Cause He'd Nothing Else to Do," "Blow Softly, O Winds," "By the Waters of Babylon," "Neath Provencian Skies," "The Poor Old Slave," and "Tick Tock."

Music Faculty

The faculty of the Bethel College School of Music is composed of Prof. Walter H. Hohmann, Prof. Russel Anderson, Prof. Eldon L. McCollum, Miss Olga Hiebert and Miss Melba Napier.

At the head of the music department is Prof. Hohmann which position he has held for eleven years. Prof. Hohmann is instructor in advanced piano, directs the A Cappella Choir and has charge of the ladies' quartette. He has composed several music compositions, which have been published in the last two years. The A Cappella Choir, consisting of fifty voices, helps sing annually Handel's "Messiah" at Christmas and sings DuBois' "Seven Last Words" at Easter. Prof. Hohmann conducted Gauls "Holy City" on the 27th of May, 1934. This not only included the state of Kansas but adjoining states. There were about nine hundred voices in the Chorus.

Prof. Anderson is instructor in voice and sponsors the Men's Octette. He sang the bass solos in the Messiah and Seven Last Words for four years.

Prof. Eldon L. McCollum comes to Newton to instruct students in violin. He directs the orchestra and brass sextette.

Miss Olga Hiebert, music teacher at Moundridge, comes to Bethel College to instruct organ students.

Miss Melba Napier teaches piano at Bethel. Her down town studio is especially for children.

The Bethel College School of Music broadcasted a series of programs over KFJH in Wichita.

The A Cappella Choir

Fifty black-cloaked forms march slowly and solemnly up the darkened aisle singing softly to the accompaniment of melodious tones from the organ. Fifty figures sit down in unison at the signal of their conductor. Fifty voices blend harmoniously now swelling out into loud song as terrifying as the noise of crashing billows on a tempestuous ocean, now dying down to a caressing murmur, reminding one of the gentle ripple of a pond-like calm, and now once more swelling out to a stirring and culminating climax that causes the very souls of the listeners to vibrate. Such was the Christmas vesper service rendered by the A Cappella Choir in the college chapel, a taste of the more numerous vesper services that followed.

The A Cappella choir, whose members are admitted after examinations conducted at the beginning of the school year, is a vested chorus of carefully selected and carefully trained men's and women's voices. It has endeavored to cultivate a greater appreciation of music that is ennobling and elevating; both among students and neighboring people. To this end the choir, directed by Prof. Hohmann, has presented church programs at Buhler, Hutchinson, Halstead, Newton, and other places, where it has sung the loftiest type of music, mostly of a sacred character. During Easter, it rendered, at Newton in striking operatic fashion, the "Seven Last Words of Christ" by Du Bois. The solo parts were carried by Miss Frances Goerz, soprano; Mr. Briggs, tenor; Prof. Anderson, baritone.

In the past the activity of the choir has been limited by the cost of transportation, but with the advent of prosperity the choir will continue and increase its spirit satisfying outflowings through the interpretation of life in song.

Coach Unruh

For the past five years Otto D. Unruh has been the athletic mentor of Bethel College. With the exception of the first year, when Clifford Morgan was football coach, Unruh has coached every major and minor sport and has also conducted the Gym classes for both men and women.

"Otts" first became connected with Bethel in the fall of 1918 when he entered the academy, and again later when he completed two years of college here. While in Bethel he played with the Graymaroon basketball squad for four years, and spent two years as coach of academy athletics. In 1924 he was picked as an All-State forward in the Kansas Conference in which Bethel finished the season as runner-up.

Unruh spent the next two years at Kansas University where, in his first year, he was elected captain of the Freshman basketball team. The next year, playing under "Phog" Allen, he was a regular on the University quintet and also made a name for himself with Coach Capone, the football director at that time.

After graduating from the University, Otto took up coaching at Blue Rapids, Kansas, but, when his old Alma Mater gave him the call to come to Bethel in 1929, he gave up High School coaching and re-entered Bethel; this time as Athletic Director of the College.

Although his playing days were over, Coach did not settle back and remain idle. He always worked hard with his "boys" during the school year, and spent the summers in attending numerous coaching schools, the better to prepare himself for the work during the winter term.

During his five year stay, Coach has developed some excellent teams. While the material had to be built up from the very bottom, this year has been a climax in Bethel's athletic history and has well repaid Unruh for his previous efforts. Never before has a Graymaroon team had such a successful football season. The basketball season too, while not as outstanding has been highly successful. So let us join together in three hearty cheers for a man who has proved himself to be an excellent coach and a most worthy friend.

Letter Club

The Bethel College Letter Club was first organized in 1920 and has functioned every year since that date. This year Max Seger was elected president, Floyd Roberts vice-president and Ted Pankratz, secretary-treasurer.

The Club very efficiently handled the Harvey county track meet for rural graded schools on April 14 and also took charge of the Little Arkansas Valley meet in which High Schools competed. In addition the Club has started the work of rebuilding the Bethel tennis courts which were badly in need of repair.

Football

The Unruh-coached Graymaroon football team of 1933 made its first appearance to Newton football fans on October 13. Like all good soldiers, the Maroon and Gray clad warriors marched up and down the field and reeled off yardage almost at will, sending the Chilocco Indians back to their reservation a defeated team. The final score read 19-0.

Leading the Hutchinson Salt Hawks by three points, the Bethel Graymaroons entered the fourth quarter of play quite confident that a victory was soon to be theirs. Some hard luck, however, turned against them and the Salters scored a touchdown soon after the ball was put into play making it a bitter 9-12 reversal.

The McPherson Bulldogs proved themselves to be a superior team in defeating Bethel 26-0 in a game that saw the Graymaroons vainly fighting an uphill battle trying to overpower a much heavier and stronger opponent.

Trying desperately to avenge a defeat, the Graymaroons played some of the hardest ball of the season against the Friends Quakers, and up to the last few minutes kept the Quakers in the dust with the short end of the score. In the closing minutes, however, some bad "breaks" gave Friends the necessary points to tie the count at 19-19.

The next encounter was quite a feature on Bethel's athletic program; a game with the Olathe Deaf-Mutes. Throughout the game the two teams battled on even terms; only the superiority of Bethel's backfield in taking advantage of openings in the opposing line accounted for the 14-0 victory.

Undaunted by the fact that they were competing against a team from a school almost five times as large as their Alma Mater, the Bethel Graymaroons mowed down the Wichita University "B" team in great fashion and defeated the Wheat Shockers 35-0.

Tearing the heavy line of the Lindsborg Swedes to shreds, Bethel won their closing game of the season to the tune of 20-7. Although on foreign soil the Graymaroons plowed into the Bethany eleven with such vim and vigor that the Swedes fell back in dismay and tried vainly to stop the onslaught of the Bethel warriors.

Those making their letters were: Captain Wesley Cunningham, Ted Pankratz, Floyd Roberts, Art Landes, Murray Hawley, Neil Vosburgh, Norman Burkett, Arnold Buhler, Andrew Douglass, Pete Kaufman, Max Seger, John Schroeder, John Eitel, Giles Elmore, Harrison Krider, Herman Ruff, John Krehbiel, J. Marcus Jantzen, Thomas Devlin, Mose Stucky.

Basketball

When Coach Unruh sent out his call for basketball men, about thirty-five sons of Bethel responded. Of these six were lettermen from last year, and quite a number were seasoned players from High School teams of high caliber.

Opening the season with a win over the Eldorado Junior College boys, the team got off to a flying start; only to have its hopes dampened when the return game came out with the Graymaroons on the short end of a 16-24 reversal.

After winning handily from the Alumni 26-18 on January 3, the quintet lost to the strong Alva Teachers and College of Emporia, 29-47 and 26-31, respectively. The Sterling Warriors, however, could not cope with the speed and accuracy of the Graymaroons and met defeat in the next contest 55-17.

Bethany's Terrible Swedes could not stop the fast moving Bethel offense and were beaten 29-22, but in a desperate effort to avenge a last year's defeat the McPherson Bulldogs stopped a late Bethel rally and won 30-22. The Haskell Indians from Lawrence were not as successful though, and were trounced 38-30.

The Friends quintet was beaten on its own court 32-22, and McPherson, again stopped a last minute rally, scored their second victory over Bethel 30-25. In the next Friends game the Quakers were completely snowed under with the count 44-18. The Hays Teachers, however, coming from behind in the second half showed the Graymaroons what giants could do and took a 25-17 decision.

Combining some excellent floor work and accurate basket shooting the Graymaroons took the Terrible Swedes to the cleaners for the second time, drubbing them 35-10; and the Quakers met their third defeat at the hands of the Mennonites soon after to the tune of 36-21. On February 22, however, the Friends cagers, determined to avenge a string of three defeats, reversed the score on Bethel and won 27-24. In the seasons' final encounter the Sterling College Warriors were turned back by "Otts" men for the second time, losing 33-9.

Thus ended another successful season for the Graymaroon basketeers. Let's give them and the coach a big hand.

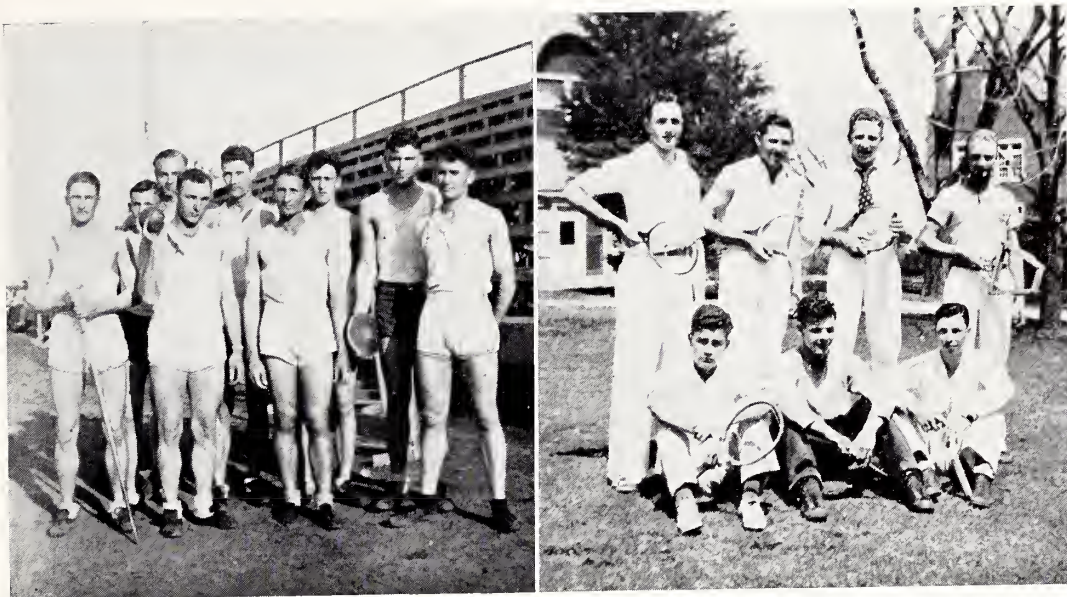

Those making their letters were: Captain Don Kennison, John Krehbiel, Wesley Cunningham, Floyd Roberts, Art Landes, Ernest Bartel, Tommy Devlin and Murray Hawley.

Girls Basketball

In contrast with former years, Bethel had a girl's basketball team this year. Captained by Elizabeth Whitney, the team played some very creditable ball, winning all of the games played. With a start like that, next year's team should really go places.

Season's Record

Bethel 53—Newton Independents 14.
 Bethel 31—Whitewater 16.
 Bethel 17—Burrton 14.
 Bethel 18—Burrton 17.

Track

With but a few of last year's lettermen back the outlook for the track season was not very hopeful. But, as the season progressed, things began to look much better. The boys were steadily developing into real track and field men.

The first meet with Hutchinson Junior College resulted in a tie. Each team garnered sixty-three points. Hutchinson was leading by sixteen points until the last two events. Then Miller, Claassen and Roberts threw the discus away and made a clean sweep with nine points. In the javelin, Kennison and Roberts too, exceeded the marks of Morris and the points were quickly made up.

Next came a triangular meet at McPherson. Competing with Bethel were McPherson and Hutchinson. Kennison who had been the main cog in the tie up with Hutchinson was ill and could not enter, leaving the team in a rather weak position. The result was that the Graymaroons came in third with only 27 points.

In another triangular the next week which was run off at Friends with McPherson and Bethel the visiting schools, Bethel nosed out McPherson for second place honors. As the teams entered the mile relay, the last event, Friends held a safe margin and Bethel and Mac were tied for second. However, Claassen, Schrag, and Pankratz came in behind the Friends runners, but leading the Bulldogs, and annexed three more points to their score.

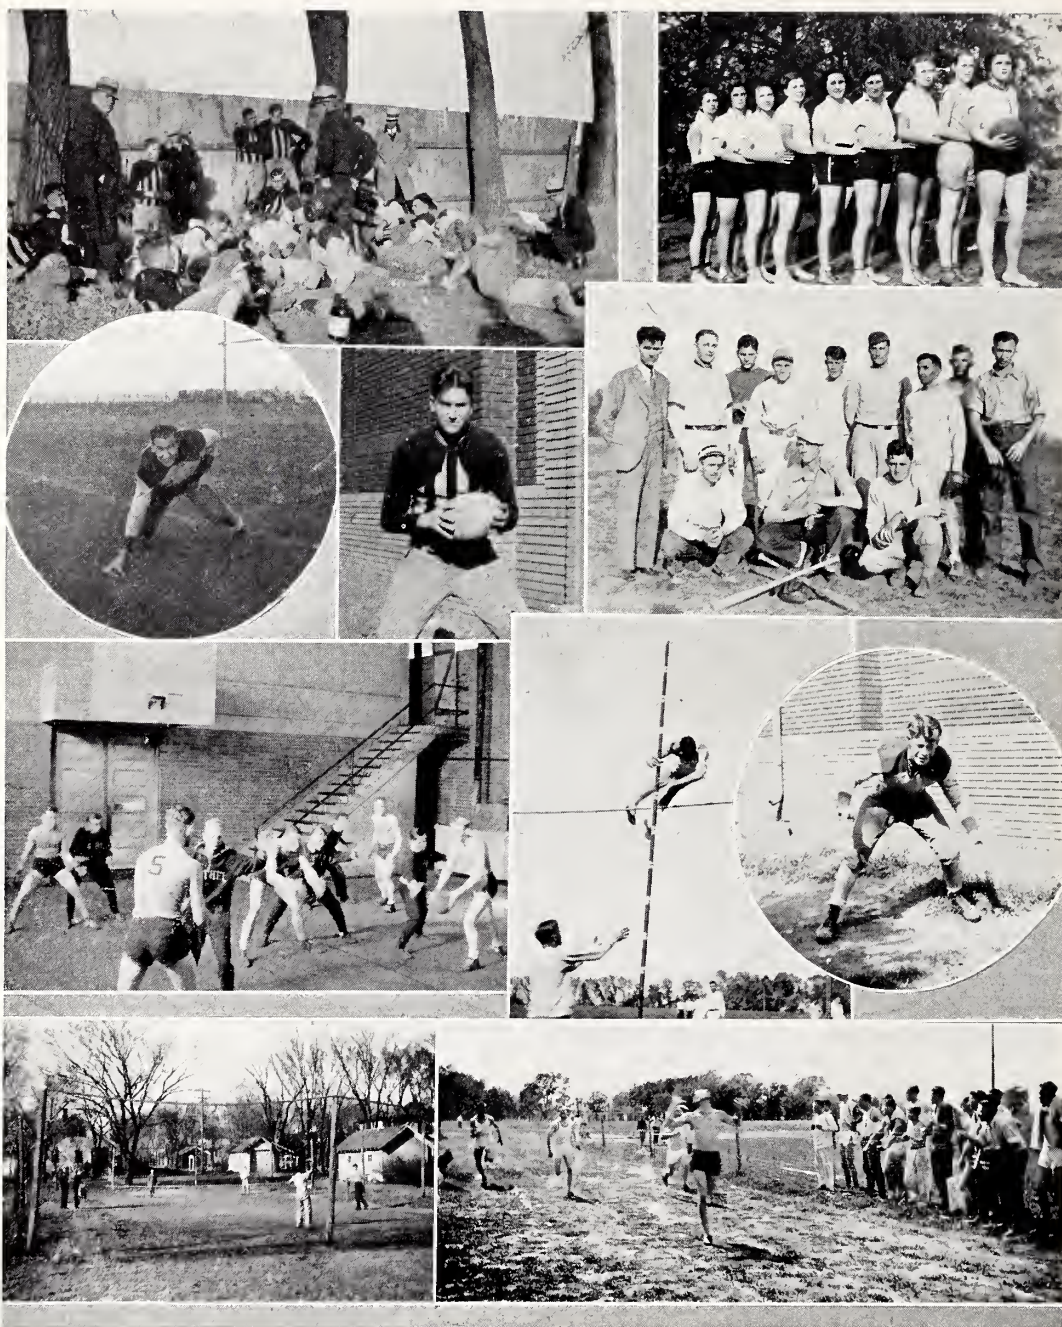

On May 8, Bethel again finished second in another triangular meet. The competition this time was between Sterling, McPherson and Bethel. Bethel lost out by failing to place in the pole vault and 220 yard dash and this accounted for McPherson's advantage.

The last meet before this book went to the press was with the Quakers of Friends University. This again proved to be a close affair. With the broad jump and the relay left, Bethel was leading by two points. However, taking eight points in the jump and winning the relay gave Friends the necessary points to come out as victor.

Tennis

Although lacking suitable courts on which to play, the Bethel tennis team of 1934 has really been going in great fashion. In the first meet with Hutchinson Junior College the Salt Hawks bested them 5-1, but the next time the Salters met with the Graymaroons at McPherson the score was tied at three matches apiece. Against McPherson only two matches were won, however. The next week Bethel made a clean sweep of affairs at Friends and won all six encounters. The last match so far was with Sterling, in which the boys again emerged as victors with the count 5-1 in their favor.

The team included only one letterman from last year, the rest of them, while being experienced players, were not lettered. Those making their letters this year are: Captain Kenneth Sparrow, Harold Hall, Ted Voth, Roland Richert, Earl Unruh, Venard Yust and Gene Enns.

Sidelights on Sports

Resting—after holding back the Swedes the first half.

Bethel's Co-eds are also players. And how! Not a loss in four starts.

Seger—"Break 'em up, Max." What a man! What a man!

Landes—Fleet on his feet, and a dead-shot at tackling.

Baseball—The Yankees started sometime, too.

The start of the finish of another two points. An offensive play in its first stage.

Kennison—"Crossing the Bar."

Douglass—"Great interference running, Andy."

Tennis—Service, ball one!

Look at em go; once around the block and back again.

Scenery Along the Way

Blended into the regular routine of scheduled college work, there enter into the daily program those incidents which can be neither predicted nor scheduled; but which, nevertheless, have a tremendous effect upon success or failure in college. It is the scenery along the way that makes the journey either pleasant and interesting, or dull and monotonous.

The "spat" we had with our room-mate this morning; the date we had last night; the fishing trip we took yesterday; the tete-a-tete across the dinner table; the unexpected confidence of a friend; that flat tire—these are the things that make or mar the day.

Life is not just so many things to attend to, just so many steps to take, just so much to do—it is human. If the unexpected, the element of surprise, the thrill of adventure, the chance of meeting with interesting personalities, were taken out of life it would become stale and mechanical. It is for these little things the heart-throbs, laughter, and tears that are shared with one another, for which one really lives, toils, and struggles.

Nor is this rubbing of elbows, this sharing of common joys and woes, the least of education. For is not life made up of little incidents like these?

Some of the incidents that count in a student's life may be gleaned from the following pages:

Klubs and Kids

Clubs are prevalent in Bethel. At the top of the page are "snaps" of the Knega and of the 4-H Club.

Rather a discrepancy in the ages of those Goerz Hall boys, eh?

Remember the 1932 Y. M. Cabinet?

"Four n' quarter! Four n' quarter! Sold!" Auctioneer Mose. Occasion: box supper for the benefit of the social room.

Can you find them? The "Government Aid" students?

The White House Gang! How can they ever keep peace among themselves.

Private and Public

Banquets are public affairs; but look at the bedroom scene! That's private.

You're fooling us, aren't you Alvin? We would expect the Buhler girls to study, though.

"Let the babies have their milk." Help yourself, Willard.

Lose a dime, Eldon? Or was it a penny?

If Mildred scorches the water, what will "he" say?

We want chili! We want chili!

Girls and aprons. Good housekeepers?

Work! Then Eat!

That's what Bethel students did on Clean-up Day!

But "how come" Martha and Gustie don't need to work? Imagine! Resting in a hay-wagon!

Lois and Elizabeth, on the other hand, worked themselves nearly to death. At least you can see their poor twisted bodies.

Hennessy, what are you trying to show the wide, wide world?

A rare sight that—professors in working clothes!

Who's hungry? Well, just look at the mob before the Dining Hall.

Pleasure and Pain

Angel Cake or Spinach—which will it be, Selma?

Yes, sir, typewriters were used even in Adam's time. The picture is the proof.

Books! Books! Books! Why use a head at all?

Even the professors played—at the Y. W. C. A. Chili party.

Markie, the boys are waiting for you. (Maybe she doesn't want to see them).

Some people do all the work! Ask those with overalls and milk buckets! Or Prof. Voth and Arnold.

Up goes the College Barn!

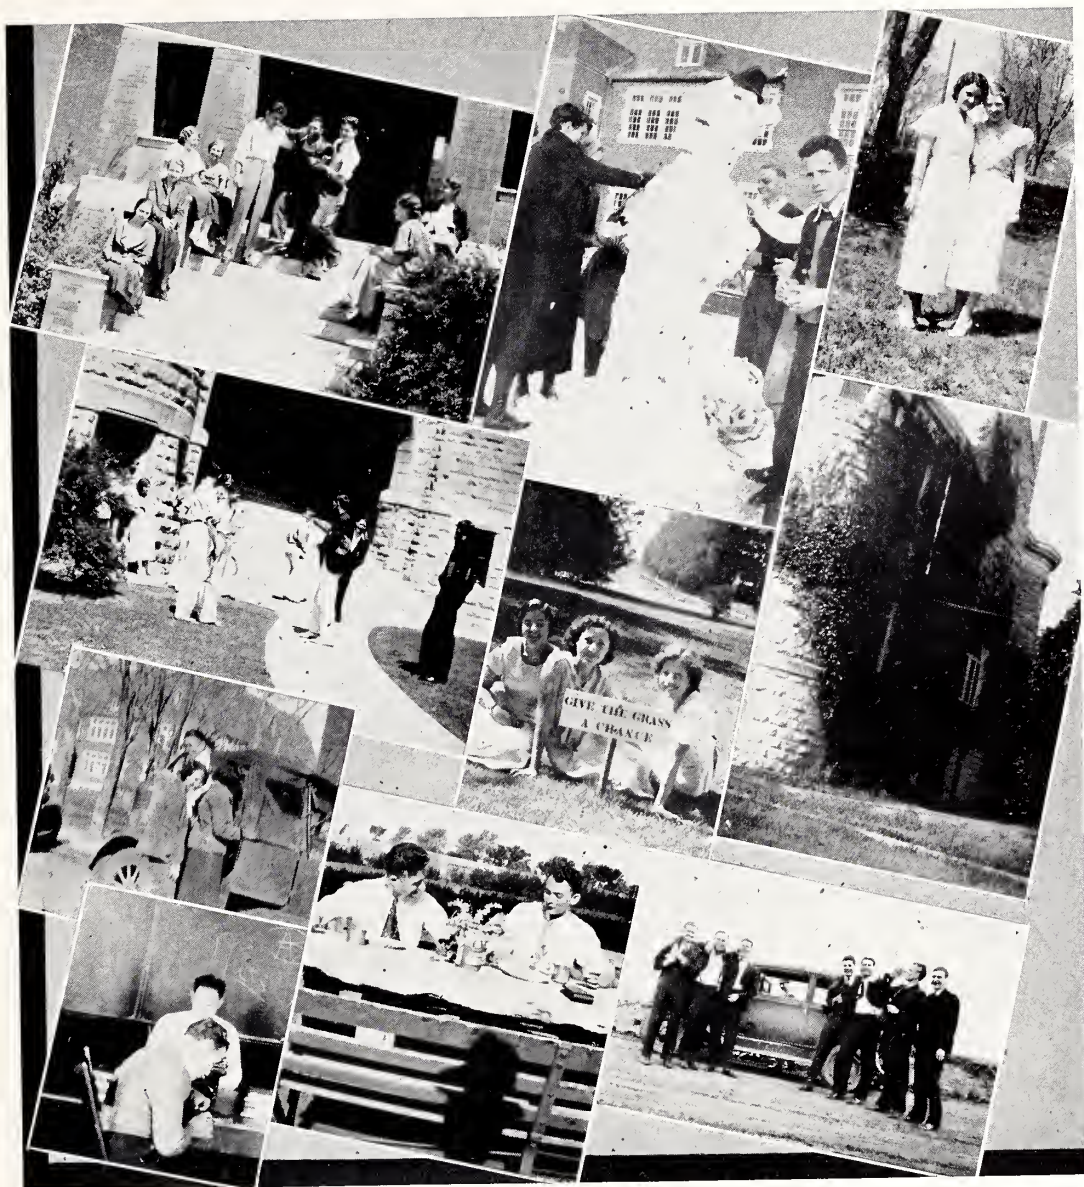

Fun Seriously

"Aw, Pete! Tell me true,
Are you hot, or frozen blue?"
What a cowpuncher, Texas! But where are the cows?
Ye Old Rattle Trap is coming. Close yer ears, me friends.
Art thinks he's doing a good job!
Who's on top of the world? Don't make a mistake, boys, you're just on top of the truck.
What a buggy ride! There's no horse!
Boys, the old bus just doesn't work; the wheels won't turn 'round.

Fun and Flats

Visitors at Bethel: Men's Glee Club from Texas Christian College. Remember "Johnny Smoker?"
What's so funny, Helen?
Four flats! But it's not Walt's fault.
The Juniors made a miscue and attempted to prevent the Seniors from "sneaking."
The innocent are so often the sufferers.
So that's Margaret Louise!
Songs froze in the air, say the Octette boys. Have they thawed out yet?
Estes and mountains belong together.
Ask those who were there!
Didn't expect a flat, did you, Mary D.?

Fish Stories, - Snakes - Sweethearts

Just so Professor Doell won't be absent-minded, fry his toes, and put the fish in the shoe-box.

Well, Bartel, haven't you room for both in your mouth at the same time?

Dr. Harshbarger may be rather vague in the head, too. He thinks he's leaning on a fence post.

What if beer were 6c? Have enough cash, Ted?

"Extra! Extra! Art Landes, Famous Snake Charmer!"

Buzzard or airplane? Which do you see, Norma?

From Soup to Nuts

Four's a crowd—in the White House taxi.

Mose has just recovered from a severe case of heart-break. Support him well, Buhler and Steve.

What are you drinking, Johnny?

What wants the grass to grow? Give the girls a chance!

The soup's there—so are the gentlemen. But where are the ladies?

Who goes to college for an education? Not Mr. Snow Man, nor the Messrs. Nuts and Nuts pictured in the lower left hand corner.

Bethel's Fellowship Society

Local chapters of the Bethel College Fellowship now number 22 and are distributed over Nebraska, Oklahoma and Kansas. The general aim of these organizations is to further mutual understanding and helpfulness between church and college.

The specific aims for the local groups include:

1. To pray for Bethel
2. To talk for Bethel
3. To suggest improvements at Bethel
4. To help people get better acquainted with Bethel
5. To call the school's attention to prospective students
6. To encourage prospective students to attend here
7. To encourage individuals to make a definite annual contribution to Bethel.

The local organizations and officers are trying, in so far as possible, to carry out the above "specific aims" in their local congregation. They have arranged for at least one meeting a year of all the members of the local fellowship for prayer, organization, discussion and action and have arranged a personal canvass once a year inviting every member in the respective congregation to join the local Bethel College Fellowship by making a financial contribution to the college for that year.

Annual membership in the local Fellowship is granted to individuals upon making contributions as follows: Good Will Membership, $1.00; Loyalty Membership, $5.00; Association Membership, $10.00; Sustaining Membership, $25.00; Family Membership, $50.00; Corporation Membership, $100.00.

The local chapters that have been organized thus far include:

Alexanderwohl Church: Moses Voth, Pres., Edna Quiring, Secy.; Cornelius Quiring, Treas.; Rev. P. H. Unruh, pastor.

Arlington Church: Linda Ewy, Pres.; Elmer Linscheid, Secy.; Elizabeth K. Linscheid, Treas.; Rev. P. J. Linscheid, pastor.

A Systematized Dream of the Future

At the 45th Anniversary celebration of the corner stone laying of the main building last October 12th a five-year program was instituted, aiming for its completion at the Fiftieth Jubilee Anniversary in 1938. It pertains to the following ten phases of Bethel College as prepared by President Kaufman together with the Board:

I. Student Body:

- a. Better quality
- b. Greater number (400 if possible).

II. Faculty Members: Not necessarily increase the total number very much, but put more stress on the following qualifications:

- a. High scholastic standards
- b. Outstanding teaching ability
- c. Able public speakers
- d. Inspiring personalities
- e. Community-minded, wholesome men and women
- f. Devotion to Mennonite principles
- g. Positive Christo-centered teaching and life

III. Campus and Dormitory life:

An atmosphere more completely surcharged with the Christian Spirit.

- a. Have a faculty member live in each dormitory with students
- b. Develop our set-up for personnel and guidance work
- c. Student-faculty cooperation in school government by way of the Student Council
- d. Develop more campus traditions which are in line with the Christian ideal.

IV. Curriculum:

Revise our curriculum in the light of best present-day trends of the small Christian Liberal Arts college and work out a unique set-up for our particular situation and mission.

V. College and Church:

Work for a closer relationship between the two.

- a. Complete, if possible, the Bethel Fellowship organization
- b. Serve the church in every way possible, such as: worthwhile programs by student groups and faculty members in our congregations; worthwhile offerings at the college by way of Institutes for Ministers, Training Schools for Church Workers, etc.

VI. College and Town:

Work for greater mutual appreciation by serving the city.

- a. Music Studio
- b. Night Classes
- c. Booster Banquet
- d. Various other community enterprises.

VII. History:

Make arrangements to have the fifty years of history of Bethel College written up in book form.

VIII. Buildings:

Although we need a Library and other buildings, and gifts for such would be most welcome, nevertheless, because of present economic conditions no buildings are definitely on the program now. Some smaller projects should, however, be completed, such as, rebuilding of the Pipe Organ, Connect Ladies Dormitory with the Heating Plant, make arrangements for the production of our own eggs, milk, meat, and vegetables, etc.

IX. Finances:

During these next five years do what we can in building a Fiftieth Jubilee Anniversary Fund in order to accomplish the following if possible:

- a. Balance the budgets for the current years
- b. Decrease, and if possible, entirely pay off our indebtedness
- c. Increase our Endowment Fund, if possible, to the long-aimed-at sum of $500,000.

Regarding pledges our program is two-fold:

- a. It is hoped that during these five years all old pledges will be paid
- b. Any new pledges made during this time shall be so written that they mature before the Fiftieth Anniversary.

X. The Board of Directors:

In order to make the future of Bethel College more secure it would be well if the field of the institution could be widened by getting more groups to feel that they have a real share in the school, the Board of Directors of Bethel College recommends that advisory representation on the Board be given to the following groups:

- a. The Bethel College Alumni Association
- b. The City of Newton
- c. The Northern District Conference of the General Conference of Mennonites
- d. The Mennonite Brethren and the Krimmer Mennonite Brethren
- e. The Old Mennonites in this area.

Such additional members on the Board would involve no change in the charter of the school as they would have no vote at Board meetings but serve only in an advisory capacity. All representatives of the various groups are to be appointed by the Board, except the Alumni Association, who would choose their own.

The Student Wrestles With the Depression

A few years ago, students came and went, taking for granted much for which we have to struggle. Most of the students then did not have to hunt for jobs to pull them through school. Now the student who earns his way through school is looked up to with respect. The man in overalls is not scorned. He is admired because he uses both his money and his time economically. He learns to use each minute to the fullest extent, to crowd into it just as much of life as it will hold. The more he can make each minute do for him, the more joy he derives from it.

These opportunities for the development of habits of thrift, of economy, set apart the present student generation as unique.

More than one hundred students are self-supporting at least in part; at least twenty-five of these are entirely self-supporting. Some of them have taught for a few years and have saved some money. But many are working at part-time jobs in addition to carrying on their classwork and outside activities.

There is a great variety of jobs represented among the students. The college itself has a number of ways of employing students. The dining-hall staff of ten men and women is indeed a merry group. Sprinkled with laughter and teasing, their work offers them pleasant social contacts. Two women assist Miss Krehbiel in the library and two men are employed in office work. An assistant dean helps Mrs. Phillips in the ladies' dormitory. Although the campus is not very large, seven men and one woman are employed to help keep the buildings and grounds in condition.

Besides these regular employees, eighteen students, nine women and nine men, are working under the C. W. A. regulations. Their positions are distributed among a number of departments. They include work in the dining-hall, library, buildings and grounds. Several do secretarial work in the offices of the business manager, Mr. Loganbill, President Kaufman, and Dean Goertz. Still others do secretarial and research work in the following departments: psychology, sociology, biology, history and physics.

About twenty students are employed by business firms either in Newton or in neighboring towns. At least ten women are working for their room and board in private homes.

One student, John Warkentin, earns a large share of his expenses by teaching a week-day Bible school one day a week.

Four years ago, perhaps ten women and one or two men could not afford to eat at the dining-hall. They were looked upon as curiosities by the other students because they did their own cooking. Now, nineteen women and twenty-six men cook their own meals, and enjoy doing it. They find it economical and think it fun to plan their own meals. And the student who does light housekeeping can be just as popular as the student who pays for his meals at the dining-hall.

J. Marc Jantzen is perhaps one of the outstanding examples with respect to the number of things he accomplishes. During the school months he serves the college as mail carrier; he acts as agent for the Master Cleaners, Henry's Shoe Shop, and the Imperial Laundry; he cooks his own meals; he keeps up a high scholastic record; and he has a hand in an imposing list of extra-curricular activities. During the summer months he travels with the Goldsmith Omnibus College of Wichita University in the capacity of camp supervisor.

Alfred Woods, another outstanding student, in addition to class-work and outside activities, does secretarial and research work in the psychology department, works in the Montgomery Ward Store, and paints signs.

Yes, there are difficulties to overcome in college. Yet it seems that these very difficulties, when mastered, mold the student into a finer personality more ready to meet life situations.

ALMA MATER

Crests in the Waves of Campus Life

'Tis the year 1940. We are sitting by our firesides. In the flickering flames there rise pictures from the college days that used to be.

Do you remember the homely, homelike dining-hall, the Ad Building, the dents worn into the chapel steps; the foods laboratory, and the physics laboratory? Do you remember Irish Castle, Harmony Hall, Sunnyside, Pleasant View, Indu-Stray, and Cozy Nook? Do you remember the White House, Elm Cottage, and Goerz Hall?

Do you remember the tree-bordered lanes? Ah, yes, and the blackbird convention? How glad we were when our 1,569,673 feathered visitors adjourned to the Southland.

Can't you see the cats? Black cats, gray cats, and calico cats were on the sidewalks, in the dormitories, in the library. There were charming little kitties, stubborn old cats, and philosophical pussies.

There was a dark October night when Irish Castle awoke from its slumbers at 2:00 in the morning to partake of a mystic midnight repast.

Open house calls forth memories. For some it represents the annual room-cleaning. To others it pictures delightful "snoopy" excursions, upstairs, down-stairs, all around the dormitories.

"Homecoming" is that magic word which pictures football, the return of ex-students and grads. Sometimes the dining-hall has seemed lonely, deserted. At the Homecoming banquet her shabby floor was beautiful, her walls smiled back at old friends and new friends around her banquet tables.

Boys, you re-call, don't you, that turbulent Friday night when you wondered what caused the awful crashing and banging in the girls' dormitory? And Saturday morning you discovered it was only a peculiar form of entertainment known as a slumber party.

We wonder if "Monk" still keeps as a souvenir the mouse that once upon a time was captured in his skillet, or if "Chummy's" slumbers are interrupted by squirming cats.

We cannot keep back a chuckle when we recall some of the performances of Bethel students away from home. Two aristocratic Bethel lassies were very pleased about the room they had engaged in Sigma Kappa Sorority at the Y. W. and Y. M. conference at K. U. In their most up-to-date manner they asked for the location of the Kappa Sig House. How chagrined they were when they were informed that it was not customary for the ladies to visit their gentlemen friends at the fraternity.

Will Erland Waltner and Ray Guy ever forget their long, leisurely afternoon in a little Kentucky village? They sat on the curbing and twiddled their thumbs, waiting seven hours for the train to take them home from the debate tournament at Lexington.

Here is a relic of the House of Representatives organized in the American Government class. It is a bill which passed by a two-thirds majority of the house: "Be it enacted by the senate and the house of representatives of the United States in congress assembled, that old-maid school teachers, thirty-five years of age and over, should receive a pension of $15 per month as a retirement reward for their services."

Do you remember the days and weeks when the dormitory girls would one by one, In-Du-Stray into Pest Hall? A tooth-ache caused an uproar, for it might be the mumps. Steve and Richard awaited at the dormitory the daily news-letters served hot from the oven.

Ah, the seniors of 1934 are smugly remembering how they sneaked away from the juniors. Sunday night, after a program at the Newton auditorium, they failed to return to the campus, and Monday their professors missed them in classes.

But the juniors are remembering the reception they staged for the returning seniors. In the front hall of the dormitory, they had stationed two delightful hostesses, Mrs. Chatter and Mrs. Gabble, who bore a striking resemblance to Luella Smith and Vera Warkentin.

We were not always happy. There were times when "Monk's" usually jolly disposition faded into a strangely subdued melancholy, when Frank Buhler wandered listlessly through the halls, when Ray Stucky lost his appetite, when the Goerz Hall boys studied long after midnight. Those were the times when our future hung in the balance—examinations.

The fires are burning lower. The pictures are growing fainter and fainter. Now they crumble and fall. They are ashes and a few glowing embers—the faint sparks of memory.

All In A Day's Work

Wish! Swish! Schlurp! Shoo-oo-wish!

The White House door opens. Monk steps in. "For cat's sake, Mose, why the excess H_2O on the floor? Don't you know that water in such great amounts properly belongs in the Pacific?"

"Or in the bath tub, Monk, with you in it."

"Well, of all the big . . ."

"Oh, yeah? You . . .!" And Monk and Mose battle in submarine depths with might and main.

"Au-u-ah! Ouch! A shark! A shark! My foot! I'm going down, Mose, help me! Oh-oh-oh!"

The door opens again. "Football" Pete enters and is immediately knee-deep in water. "Well, well. So this is the way to scrub floors. Boys, I pronounce an armistice. 1- 2- 3- stop! Be at peace!"

"Oh! My leg! A shark!"

"Nonsense! Stick out your leg!" Monk lifts his pedal appendage to the light — and beholds — a mousetrap clinching his big toe. By dint of sheer courage Pete releases the toe from the awful clutch of the monster.

Darkness! It is night! Worthy professors have long since sought repose to strengthen themselves for the never ending and well nigh hopeless struggle with nit-wits and study-nots.

Far up in the sky, however, on the top story of the "Hennery," burns a light. Two - three - five girls whisper there to each other.

Tramp, tramp, tramp! The light is out. Tramp, tramp, tramp! The matron opens the door. "Is anybody there?" Her hand moves along the wall. The light is on! What reveals itself?

There—through a hole in the waste basket creeps a pink thing, a worm. No, a toe. A toe!

Horrors! The bed moves. It has convulsions. Crash! Bang! Oh! And two girls sprawl out of the debris. The matron speaks: "Don't you know that the light has winked for the last time? The last time, I said."

"Hm!" Her eye roves around the room. "Girls, dresser drawers need not be open for government inspection." And she closes the offending drawer.

"Ooooh! Open! Ooooh!" Jerk. The matron opens it. Two eyes peer out at her, and a red, red nose. "You, you, you pinched my nose. You, you when you closed the drawer!"

But why is the materon so pale and white? Ah! She rocks on her feet! She falls to the right and to the left. She falls to the ground! Ah! The fifth girl! She was under the rug, just under the matronly feet. Ah!

"Hi! What you want for breakfast tomorrow morning?"

"Pincushions," answers Bachelor II.

"Quit your kiddin'. All right, all right! I'll serve you pine needles a-la-mode."

"You misinterpret my wish. I mean, cold sliced porcupine with apple sauce." Bachelor I slams the door and is gone.

"Ham 'n' eggs. Ham 'n' eggs. Cornflakes, biscuits. Ah, I'll make cakes in a pan." Bachelor I subsides in his excitement concerning the needs of the future and begins to exercise those muscles commonly associated with higher thought processes . . .

Bachelor I is still a mile deep in thoughts. Tap, tap, tap! His heart keeps time to the rhythmic flow of nerve impulses.

Creak! Creak! The closet door opens. A figure stealthily leaves the room.

Next morning: Bachelor I beats pots and pans in a frantic effort to synthesize pancakes for breakfast. "One cup milk. Three cups flour. O Kay! Now $\frac{1}{4}$ teaspoon lard. And at last $\frac{1}{2}$ cup baking powder."

Z-z-z-z! The pancakes are busy browning themselves. "Come and get it, boys!" Bachelors II and III appear just as the last cake has attained its normal height of eleven inches.

"Syrup! Don't we have any syrup?" Shrieks one of the starving Bachelors.

"Mmmm! Yum! Ummm! I like pancakes and syr . . . Fui! Fi! Fo! Fum! What's the matter with these . . . ! Salt? There's enough in them to put on any monkey's tail. Fui! Here, take your old salt mines."

Bachelor I, the cook, answers with "poppy" eyes, "Say, fellows, there's not a grain of salt in them. I-I-I-I forgot to put any in!"

"I tell you all the salt of the world is in them!"

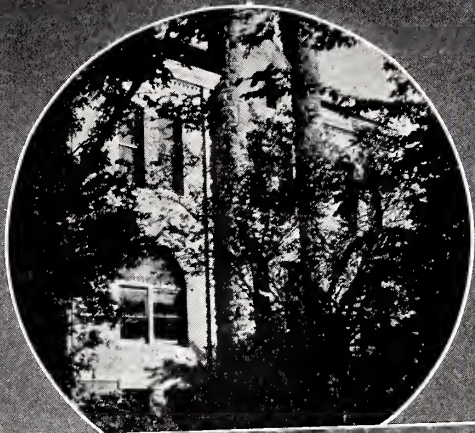

"It's not! I'll prove it to you. Look here, the salt container is empty. How could I salt them?"

"Yeah! You just dumped it all into these . . ."

"Of all impertinent things," interrupts Bachelor III. "Look at these micro-organisms swimming in the syrup!" Three heads eagerly gaze down into the depths of the syrup jug. "One, two, three, ten, one hundred, a million of them!"

"Oh breakfast! Where is thy pleasure?" But Bachelor I is sobbing heartbreakingly.

"Salt, salt, salt! There's a barrel of salt in the syrup!"

The following Newton firms have shown their loyalty to Bethel College by financially aiding the 1934 Graymaroon. They have realized that students alone cannot pay the whole cost of publishing a year book, and further, have shown that they appreciate your presence, as students, in Newton and at Bethel, by donating their space to the Graymaroon. We are indebted to them for a large share in this volume.

C'est le Fini

The task is completed! In retrospection we can now compare our dream book with that which actually has permitted us to produce. This book has given us opportunity to produce a mind-child which to us, who have been closely connected with it, has been a constant care and also a delight.

According to present indications, and with all further financial obligations in mind, we can say that not only will no deficit be incurred, but a nice nest-egg will be handed down to the Graymaroon staff of next year. This has been possible only through the greatest economy and the loyal support of the Newton firms, students, faculty and friends of the college.

This is now your book to cherish and keep. It is a student product, entirely produced by students, and thus far from perfect. But may time temper your criticisms of the contents.

We hereby thank all students who have helped produce this book, and especially do we extend our thanks to our faculty advisor, Dr. Harshbarger, who has exercised his paternal influence throughout.

The Editor and Business Manager.
